Create your profile at no cost, and you can manage your business from Google Search and Maps to start reaching more customers. Yes, you can have a profile if your business doesn't have a physical address as long as you make in-person contact with customers. You can also have a profile if you're a hybrid business that serves customers at your business address and visits or delivers directly to customers. You may also have a profile if you're a service-area business that visits or delivers to customers directly, but doesn't serve customers at its business address, like a plumber or cleaning service. Learn how to claim and verify your profile if you're a service-area business Add collaborators—just like with Google Docs, Sheets, and Slides—to build questions together in real-time. Then analyze results together without having to share multiple versions of the file. Use built-in intelligence to set response validation rules. For example, ensure that email addresses are properly formatted or that numbers fall within a specified range. It's easy to share forms with specific people or with a broad audience by embedding forms on your website or sharing the links on social media.
